As we approach the 9th anniversary of the “Shock and Awe” attack on Iraq, we are once again seeing U.S. politicians and elected officials targeting an oil-rich nation in the Persian Gulf, claiming that it might soon build nuclear weapons. This time the target is Iran, and the U.S. is once more trying to drag its allies with it on a path that could lead to war.

Yet while the U.S. government lectures and threatens Iran and North Korea about the evils of nuclear weapons, it routinely test fires its own long-range nuclear missiles from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California, sending a clearly implied nuclear threat to the world. The next test launch is scheduled for February 25, 2012.

Shine light on the HYPOCRASY!

Join us for a demonstration and vigil to point out the utter hypocrisy of the government’s policies and actions.
